Society Set To Select Hon. Keys

It has been announced that all future appointments to the Scarlet Key Society will be considered honorary. These will include both the main bulk of the members appointed before the mid-term, and any additional members named during the spring and fall.

In a statement to the Daily, vice-president Morris Charney said that in an effort to maintain the highest quality of membership, students will be considered on the basis of the Scarlet Key objective, which is "To recognize and represent qualities of manhood, scholarship, honour, leadership, and devotion to duty."

SUBMISSIONS

Present members are asked to submit, before or at the October 12th meeting, the names of students who have the above qualifications and have shown outstanding qualities in some field of activity.

All candidates must have at least a second class academic standing, and if in the Faculties of Arts, Science, Dentistry, Medicine, or Commerce, must be in 3rd year. Those in Engineering must be in fourth year; in Law, second year; in Architecture, fifth year; and in Music and Divinity in third and second year respectively.

Nominations of students should include relevant information as to qualifications. The Society will make all appointments on the basis of majority vote.

Monkey Sees and Monkey Does

Students at the Arts Building were horrified yesterday when a hairy monster of the jungle stormed in and abducted second year Arts student Beverley Stewart. At latest report, Miss Stewart has suffered indeterminable shock, and the vicious simian is still on the rampage.

University Of Toronto Divinity Student To Be President Of NFCUS

Walter MacLean, a former president of the University of Toronto's student council, was elected thirty-fifth president of NFCUS, last Monday, at the annual meeting, held this year at Kingston.

Drawing support primarily from Western region delegates, MacLean defeated Peter Dembski, also formerly of U. of Toronto, and Peter Green, a 1961 Dalhousie graduate now at Queen's.

MacLean, a stocky, 25-year-old divinity student, nominated by McGill, won the election on the second ballot after Green's elimination on the first vote.

He called for a practical approach to the problems facing the federation, "Let's be practical." Let's start using the opportunities we already have."

To create greater solidarity amongst Canadian university students he called for increased use of the provincial exchange program and the establishment of a national student publication in the near future.

EXPERIENCED

MacLean is an Arts graduate of Victoria College and the University of British Columbia, and later went on to divinity studies at U. of Toronto and University of Alberta at Edmonton.

He brings to the post considerable administrative experience both in student government at U. of Toronto and with NFCUS in Canada, and as overseas commissioner for the federation.

DEFEATED

Dembski, also a former president of the Toronto council, was introduced to the delegates by his Laval nominator as a man having the necessary "deep knowledge of the problems of the two Canadian races."

His popularity in the central Canada regions, however, failed to win him the necessary votes.

Green, formerly Atlantic Regional Chairman, also found that support from the Atlantic region and Queen's was insufficient.

Main issues at stake in all elections were the problem of NFCUS finances, difficulty of coordinating the highly decentralized organization, and the need to build up the federation from the grass roots.

CHAIRMEN

Other officials elected on the last evening of the five day congress included four regional Chairmen: Leslie Thoms, of Memorial University, Atlantic Region; Jean Marier, of the University of Sherbrooke, Quebec Region; Robbie Shaw, of Queen's, Ontario; and Dave MacLean, of the University of Alberta at Edmonton, Western Region.

Paul Becker, of the University of Western Ontario and Osgoode Hall, was elected vice-president for international affairs.

Valerie Forbes of Ottawa University was defeated by Andre Ouellette, of University of Sherbrooke in the race for the position of national vice-president.

DEFICIT

Proposals to eliminate the $7,600 deficit of the NFCUS were advanced by chairman Robbie Shaw.

As a partial measure of alleviating the deficit, the federation suggested and unanimously passed a motion recommending a voluntary fee increase.

MEMBER

The per capita fees from each member university are paid on sliding scale based on student population. At present the average payment for each student for all NFCUS services is 41 cents. Under the proposed fee increase this would be raised by 27.7 per cent.

Each area of federation activity came under close scrutiny in an attempt to get rid of last year's accumulated deficit and expenditure is to be drastically reduced.

Budgeted expenditures include: congress travel, $6,000; travel information service, $2,000; administration, $17,197; executive expenses, salary and travel $12,542.

Bus Pass Photos

Students eligible for bus passes should have photographs taken at the MacDonald Engineering Bldg., Rm. 280, today at 3:30 pm.

Vicious Gorilla On Rampage, Brazenly Nabs Innocent Coed

Terror and panic pervaded McGill today. Yesterday, at 1 pm, a full-grown gorilla walked into the Union. An hour later, he had kidnapped, robbed, destroyed...

His dubious sense of smell first directed him to the Grill room. Students scattered, but Tino, believing him to be a McGill Redman, served him a hamburger. The gorilla, suddenly realizing he was eating his kin (who was incidentally quite unpalatable), went berserk.

The brute didn't even stop to greet oogling freshettes as he lumbered to rescue his "half brother," Bloody Boris (Bloody Boris is a "bear's head", a trophy awarded annually to the post graduate faculty, which, proportionately speaking, donates the most blood). Andrew Roman, B.A.III, valiantly attempted to defend the trophy, but was overpowered by superior intelligence.

CAMPUS

The Gorilla ran towards the campus and sent a flustered Zoology professor running up a tree. With untypical Canadian manners, he (the gorilla) "picked up" Beverley Stewart, a second year Arts student, whose screams and wiggles delighted the horrified onlookers. Mr. Compton, the superintendent of the Arts Building, gallantly approached the gorilla and issued that fatal shout: "See the dean, at once; at once, do you hear?" But the gorilla did not hear. Accustomed to threats amounting to capital punishment, he merely grinned, grunted, and then growled: "GRTB".

It is assumed that GRTB is his name or that it is a gorilla swear word. The latter possibility could not be verified, as the aforementioned Zoology professor refused to descend from his "lofty perch".

DANGER

The gorilla is dangerous. Instead of "Grrrr-r-r" he says "Woof", but his bite is worse than his bark. He is 6 feet tall, dark, very hairy, and has pronounced sex drives. (At last report, Beverley Stewart has refused to leave him...)

Meanwhile other members of the Blood Drive Committees are continuing their work undaunted. The various chairmen have come up with many new ideas in an effort to set a new high in student contributions.

STAFF

All persons associated with McGill, be it office-worker, staff member, or professor, are invited to be blood donors. These pints will not be counted towards any trophy, but will possibly initiate greater responses from the students. Late clinics will be held for those students who would not otherwise find time to donate blood.

Mass marches on the Union and a variety of new publicity gimmicks have been planned. "Active" publicity such as six huge billboards will be seen shortly around the campus.

Prizes awarded each day at the clinic was a feature of last year's publicity efforts. This year, once again, each donor will be given a number as he enters the clinic. Numbers will be periodically chosen during the day, with the winners receiving prizes along the line of those awarded last year.

BLEED AND LAUGH

A host of entertainers have consented to perform during noon-hour at the clinic for the duration of the campaign. On Wednesday, October 11th, the entire cast of the Desjardins Revue is scheduled to entertain in the Union ballroom. In addition, a number of other performers, well-known in the Montreal area, will be featured at the clinic.

For the second year, students under the legal age of eighteen will be permitted to give blood if they have the written permission of their parent or guardian. Before last year's campaign, many freshmen who wanted to give blood were turned away because of the 18 year age restriction.

Elimination Of Initiations Could Come If Controls Fail

Two Canadian Universities have recently taken steps to curb initiation activities.

The Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto passed a motion recommending that the federated faculties on campus put a ban on all further non-constructive initiations. This is the result of an incident which occurred during the hazing of freshmen in one of the University's residences.

The students were blindfolded and marched around the quadrangle, during which stunt one freshman walked straight into a brick wall, and suffered a chipped vertebra which landed him in hospital.

At the same time the Student

Federation of the University of Ottawa has requested an investigation into initiations of the Faculty of Civil Law, following a stunt in which freshmen were taken to the Interprovincial Bridge between Hull and Ottawa, and made to retard the roadway.

They caused traffic jams both in Hull and Ottawa, and were finally put into Hull jail. The University Public Relations Director stated that if any more demonstrations of this nature take place, initiation would be banned. After some discussions the Student Federation decided to shelve the matter until more facts were known.

Lectures Cancelled

All lectures and laboratory periods, except those in the Faculty of Dentistry and the Faculty of Medicine will be cancelled from 3 to 6 pm on Friday, Oct. 6, due to the Fall Convocation, and all lectures will be cancelled on Monday, Oct. 9, Thanksgiving Day.

OCTOBER 5, 1961

Mechanics Of Education

IN NOVEMBER of 1960, the Students' Executive Council initiated an investigation dealing with the promotion of faculty-student relationships. We conclude from this move that student leaders were agreed upon the fact that there is more to be gained on the university level than the essential information which goes towards the acquisition of a degree. A closer professor-student relationship was advocated as a means to obtaining experienced and personalized adult opinion on social and political problems as well as an unbiased evaluation of the varied fields of endeavour open to college students. In addition, it was felt that intimate faculty-student ties would lead to a more perfect degree of adaptation on the part of the college student to the demands of university environment.

Keeping this active demonstration of student opinion in mind, we find a definite parting of the ways between the attitude of educators and students on the handling of educational activities. To an ever-increasing degree, the presentation of learning is becoming automated. In the US at the present time, for instance, theorists are experimenting with machine-led instruction of mathematics; the University of Montreal has resorted to the impersonal medium of television for their presentation of three credit-bearing courses; and now Sir George is entering the field of experimentation in televised education at the university level.

The reasons for this experiment by Sir George are twofold, according to Dr. Hall, Principal of the University. Firstly, the administration wishes to ascertain whether the SGWU faculty and facilities can be adapted to the needs of TV. The second goal is the orientation of prospective and present students as well as their families to university life and its demands.

For the purpose of this editorial, the first aim is neither here nor there. It is the second part of this statement, however, to which we take exception.

According to an extensive and competent poll conducted by the SEC's committee, the college student, though actively participating in university life and curriculum, is in need of the guidance provided by personal attention on the part of professors. Now nothing can be more impersonal than the mass communication of television; and so, if Sir George intends to cater to the requisites of the student on campus, it is by the very method employed, by-passing the primary goal outlined by the students themselves. As for prospective college candidates, they are sufficiently informed of university habits to be aware of its surface atmosphere. To attain the proper environment both at the university and at home, the student must be given an on-the-spot opportunity to analyse the problems of his own personal adaptation to campus life.

As for the effort by the University of Montreal, there can be only one excuse for its continued existence; and that is the debatable hypothesis that a segment of the Montreal youth which does not have the opportunity to attend college will be given a lifeline to university education. In the first place, the majority of those who have sufficient ambition to aspire to a degree when already employed should have the energy to attend night school and get the most out of their educational activities. Secondly, educators in general are aware of the infinite superiority of actual classroom participation over the inactive assimilation of knowledge through correspondence courses — the closest analogy we can find to the present TV experiments.

Despite these objections, the University of Montreal persists in its plan of televising three-credit bearing courses which will not appeal even to the ambitious non-collegian since there is no offer of a degree to entice participation; which is not in accordance with opinions voiced both by many educators and students; and which will not have wide audience appeal.

On top of this heap of evidence place the recently-voiced student request for closer professor-student relationships and the future of these experiments in automated education does not appear to be very bright. We certainly hope it is not, in any case — both for the good of the student and the furtherance of education at its best.

From The Ivory Tower

'The Future . . . Still Lies Ahead'

by MORT SAHL

Many an evening after concluding a College Concert, I have been stopped by students who ask me whether I am a cynic, or a Nealist, or a futillitarian.

If I could say one thing to young people, I would say don't jump off the ledge. Things are getting better. Besides it would embarrass your parents.

In the field of Technology we're aiming for space. And if we win, think of the kick of being the first man on the moon. And even if we lose, I understand they're going to allow us to retain our native folk arts and dances.

A transistor radio half the size of a package of cigarettes will bring in short wave broadcasts from every part of the earth. One can go to sleep and rest assured that no one in the world has anything to say.

In the areas of mental therapy, think of the new leisure afforded the individual if he can submit his psychoanalysis to the doctor on tape.

We are reminded daily that the world is shrinking due to ultrasonic jets. A German scientist recently claimed that man could fly faster and higher than ever before, if the body were made up of active atomic molecules, could be decomposed, loaded into a rocket, shot through the high frequency altitudinous heat range and then the body would be reassembled at the passenger's destination. However, realizing the relative efficiency of TWA's baggage room today...

In areas of Sociology, Capital Punishment is giving way to negligible enlightenment to a point where people can kill each other, but it's certainly not with the approval of the State. And in some states sentences of indeterminate length are being passed upon prisoners. On the other hand, this consoles one. The attractions of prison as opposed to life: Knowing when you're getting out.

There is hope in education in that more non-conformists are appearing on the campus. Many are forming non-conformists clubs holding weekly meetings, exchanging information.

So you see regardless of what we hear about the Hydrogen Bomb and man's questionable tenure, some good things must be coming. I think we should leave it there. Otherwise the air of finality on my part would be false because I truly believe that women have the last word.

Montreal born Mort Sahl will appear at Her Majesty's theatre, on Sunday evening, October 15, at 8.30.

Letters To The Editor

The Fraternity Side

Just as the author of "What's The Rush" considered it his duty as public watchman to bring up the old hoary arguments against fraternities, I consider it my duty as a fraternity man to bring up the old hoary rebuttals.

Fraternities do not pick on freshmen. Out of a pledge class of ten in my fraternity last year, three were freshmen. The prototype of the poor little mixed up freshman is not the kind of man that gets bids from fraternities. A biddee does not have to accept his bid until the following rushing season, which gives him plenty of time to think it over.

Fraternities do not have as much effect on studies as "What's The Rush" implied. It is true that a person who spends too much time on the fraternity will flunk. It is also true that, being the kind of person he is, he would probably waste his time on something else if he were not in a fraternity. The standards of scholarship among fraternity members is certainly no lower than those of the student body as a whole.

I joined my fraternity in my freshman year, and I have never regretted the decision.

I do not think that fraternities should be abolished.

Letter from Reverend Paul S. Chan, minister of the Chinese Presbyterian Church & Community Centre, 1077 Chenneville street, Montreal, to the Chinese students of McGill University: —

Dear Friends:

We would like to take this opportunity of welcoming you to Montreal and to our Church. The Chinese Presbyterian Church and Community Centre is the only Chinese Protestant Church in the City of Montreal. It is our hope that you will make our Church your church home while you are studying in Montreal. The Church service is at four o'clock (4:00 p.m.) on Sunday afternoons. A welcome awaits you to join with us in the public worship of God.

We know that some of you are Christians and may be attending other churches in the City. We would also like to see you coming to the Chinese Church. Since many of our people are non-Christian, you can influence them to become Christian with your fellowship and presence at Church. You can even help us in our work by teaching in our Sunday School and English Classes.

Yours very sincerely,
Paul S. CHAN

Doctor Faustus Needs Some Talented Actors

Casting for the McGill English Department's "Doctor Faustus" will take place tonight and tomorrow night between 7 and 9 pm in the English Department Workshop, located between 3447 and 3450 McTavish Street.

Ticket Sale Starts For Film Society; Italian Film First

The McGill Film Society, under President Stuart Smith, has announced that the 1961-62 season will open on Friday, October 13, with the Italian film "Amice per la Vella".

As in previous years, the majority of films to be shown are foreign, although all of them have English sub-titles. Africa, India, France and Sweden are among the countries represented.

Some of the films to be presented this season are Ingmar Bergman's "The Magician", "All Quiet on the Western Front", "Come Back Africa", and "Hiroshima Mon Amour".

ADMISSION

Tickets at $2.00 for eleven performances may be obtained this week at the Union Box Office or from Society Executive members. Only ticket holders will be admitted to the films.

Professor Frank Faragoh, director of the play, says all kinds of acting and backstage opportunities are open to interested McGill students.

The 16th century play, which deals with the Faust legend, will be presented in Moyse Hall, November 16, 17, and 18.

YOUNG PLAYWRIGHTS

Professor Faragoh has offered to meet young McGill playwrights and discuss their scripts. A worthy three-act play will be produced in a "studio production" at the workshop.

To further encourage young playwrights, the Player's Club will feature for the first time a student-written, one-act script as McGill's contribution to the Inter-Varsity Drama Festival to be held here next February.

Israeli Community Seeks Intellectuals For Leaders

by BAYLA SCHECTER

"Leaders are being sought within Israel who are willing to devote their life and intellectual capacities to their own community, rather than to a personal profession."

Dr. Ernst Simon, speaking on "The Intellectual in Israeli Life", stated that an intellectual person is a human being whose values of the intellect serve ethical purposes, not a person who becomes educated for the practical purpose of a profession, such as medicine or law.

TRADITION REGAINED

He pointed out that the intellectual Jew in the Diaspora, consisting mainly of South America, the United States and Canada, is a leader without a people. When the Jews left their homeland 2,000 years ago, they "lost historical time and space" in that they had no country on which to base their ideas and loyalties. Only in Israel, he showed, has this foundation been replanted, and only there has historical background been regained.

In Israel, Simon said there are many problems for intellectuals to deal with. One of the main problems is political. The political party has an overwhelming influence on the attitude of the Israeli people, and there are very few independent thinkers left.

RELIGIOUS POSITION

The religious situation is another problem dealt with by the intellectuals. There is a danger, Simon stated, of "a denomination of priests without a holy people", because the majority of Israelis do not share their religious zeal.

How To Study: All Application Forms Wanted By Today

All application forms for the How to Study Seminar must be in by today.

The Seminar is a six week series of conferences designed expressly for students who desire to improve already existing study methods or who are vague as to how to approach courses on the college level.

LECTURE TOPICS

The lectures will cover such topics as assessment of study habits, organization of study time, effective reading, taking lecture notes, writing examinations, writing theses and reports, studying languages, and basic mathematical skills. The Seminar is available to all and is free of charge.

Further information is posted on the Arts Building bulletin board and registration forms are available at the Janitor's Office in the same building.

Students Invited to Premiere Of New "Mad-Libs" TV Show

McGill students are invited to the premiere of a different type of TV show, "Mad-Libs". Master of Ceremonies for the program will be Roger Price, a veteran of night club and television shows.

Price, who has performed at the Palladium and on the Steve Allen, Jack Paar and Ed Sullivan TV shows, commutes from New York to Montreal every week-end to practice his panicky type of humour on local audiences.

TAPED

The show will be taped at 8.30 pm and telecast at 10.00 pm on Channel 12, CFCF TV.

Lew MacLeod, producer of "Mad-Libs" said, "With the pleasure of your company on Saturday night, October 7 at the CFCF television studios we hold out the promise that Roger will select you as a Mad-Libber for future telecasts."

STUDIOS

Students must be present at the Studios at 403 Ogilvie Street by 8.30 pm, October 7. Tickets may be obtained free of charge by telephoning Miss Florence Barbussi at CR. 3-6311.

SPORTS SCRAPS

by LINDA COHEN

Assoc. Sports Editor

With another year of intellectual pursuits comes another active year of Women's Sports, an integral part of college life. In line with Canada's policy of sound physical conditioning, the WAA offers a diversified program. For all those who insist that they haven't enough time, read no further. For others however who have been moved by my epic words and are now ravaged by self doubt, think! Think of the many times that you'll be traipsing up to Purvis Hall, huffing and puffing (and, no doubt, cursing). Sounds appealing? Hardly. What, then, is the answer to this unenviable situation?

A few hours of active sports participation (which, incidentally does not include parading to and fro in the smoking room of Redpath Library), will build up your health and guard against "cold weather stalling". Just what does the WAA offer?

ARCHERY

The Archery Club, under the leadership of Pat Collins, is well underway to another successful year. All those who are interested should turn out at RVC at 2 pm every Monday and Thursday.

SWIMMING

There is recreational swimming every weekday at both the RVC and Currie Pools. Consult the Daily Intramural Schedule for the times.

For all those who are interested in participating in the Water Show, there are tryout practices Wednesday and Thursday from 5-6 and again on Thursday from 8-10 pm in the RVC Pool. For the swimmers, the final tryouts are Thursday evening, Oct. 12. All who are interested in the technical aspects of the show should consult Carolyn Ogilvy by phoning VI. 2-0495.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

There will be an open meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 10 for everyone who would like to participate in intramural basketball. No experience is necessary. The season begins on Oct. 12. Everyone interested in playing on behalf of their sorority, residence, or faculty should sign the form posted on the RVC notice board.

All upperclasswomen who would like to obtain instruction in particular sports can now do so. All they have to do is consult the phys ed office and merely mention the sport in which she is interested. If there is enough response, an instructional period will be initiated. As of the moment, upperclasswomen may join in two of the freshmen phys ed programs—swimming and keep fit.

Women's Sports Underway With Golf, Tennis, Archery

Women's sports are once again in full swing as fall competitions begin. In the fields of golf and tennis many enthusiasts have already shown up and promise to lend their skills to McGill ventures.

The first tournament of the Women's Intramural Golf Club was held during the week of September 22nd at the Municipal Golf Course. The freshies played on September 22nd and all upperclasswomen competed from the 23rd to the 29th.

Sheila Cameron emerged victorious with a score of 95, despite adverse weather conditions. Isabel Godefroy and Nan Copemen came closely behind with 96.

The Tennis Tournament, comprised of the Freshmen and Upperclass divisions will be completed where it has been in progress for the last week and a half at the McIntyre Courts. The finalists of the Freshmen bout will play the semis of the Upperclassmen. In the latter division, three of the semifinalists—Nancy Anglin, Frances Rorke, and Vicky MacLean—have already been selected.

Intramural tennis got an early start on Sept. 22, the day of upperclassmen registration. On Oct. 13, the intercollegiate team for the tournament must be chosen; the winners of the intramural tournament will represent McGill at the meet.

ARCHERY

The first intramural archery meet of the season will take place during the week of October 10th. Only those who have not previously represented McGill on an intercollegiate team will be eligible to enter this tournament.

The tournament will consist of both an indoor and an outdoor meet. The indoor meet will be a Columbia Round, with 24 arrows being shot at 30, 40, and 50 yards. The outdoor meet will be a WIAU Round with the same number of arrows shot at 15, 20, and 25 yards.

The contestants will be chosen from those who attend the practices held in the RVC Gym on Monday and Thursday from 2-4 pm.

KINGSTON BOUND

Are you thwarted in your desires to see the Redmen in action against Queens on Saturday? Do you yearn to go to the game but can't because of a transportation problem? If this is the case we have good news. A privately enterprised trip by bus will be leaving Roddick Gates at 7.30 am, Saturday. The ROUND TRIP fare will be only $5.70. If you're interested in taking the bus, please contact Bob Prinsky or Joy Fenston at the Daily, before 2 pm TODAY. Go Big Red!

BASKETBALL

Attention! Basketball enthusiasts Senior and Junior Varsity Basketball teams will start practices on Thursday, Oct. 12 at 5.30 pm in the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium. Any student interested in playing basketball please register in Office 3 in the Gym.

GRADUATE PHOTOS for "OLD MCGILL '62"

All graduating students in all faculties may have their "OLD MCGILL '62" photos taken at Coronet Studio. Students may go between 10-12 A.M. and 2-5 P.M. on their assigned days. There is a charge of $4.00 payable in CASH ONLY, and an additional charge will be imposed upon those students who fail to report on their assigned days. Each student may choose either a matte or glossy photo, size 5" x 7" in a folder, and "Old McGill '62" receives one photo. Students are asked to be respectably dressed for their photo.
